Camp FLY is designed to promote social interactions for children diagnosed with Autism, ADHD, Anxiety and Learning Disabilities. Half day camp starts with social skills training lesson followed by fun activities developed to focus on social skills such as joining in play, attending to peers, initiating and maintaining interactions, engaging in games and physical activities and recognizing social cues and feelings of others.

*High camper to instructor ratio to provide support and attention to individual needs. Campers will split into smaller groups to receive direct instruction.

*Activities include Art • Cooking • Sports • Video Games
Board Games • Outdoor Fun in Central Park

*Camp is led by Board Certified Behavior Analyst and highly trained educators.

About us

Since 2013, FLY Center, located in Harlem, has been offering programs and classes after school and weekends to children and teens of all abilities. All classes are small and highly structured to teach social and life skills.
